Share-the-Tax Plan Sought

Ohioans Organize To Prod Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio group organized to work for what it terms fair distribution of municipal income tax funds has called for the legislature to enact a uniform tax sharing law.

The organization, called the Ohio Share-The-Tax-Plan, is made up of a number of officials of cities and villages. At the meeting held here Sunday, members pointed out that at present only six or seven of the 60 municipal income tax ordinances in Ohio allow for sharing with home communities the revenues collected from non-resident workers.

The organization promised that inter-community lawsuits would be pressed vigorously if the general assembly did not move toward a satisfactory solution to what members termed a "tax squeeze."

Mayor George Anderson of Loveland said his city has filed suit against Cincinnati on grounds that the constitutional jurisdictions of Loveland over its residents is being violated by the Cincinnati income tax.

Mayor Earl Roudabush of Canfield said residents of his village are paying taxes there at a rate of $38.60 and contributing one percent of their income to neighboring communities where tax rates are $25 and $26.20.

And Mayor Robert T. Hyde of Owensville told the group a swate income tax was not being favored by state officials and was unlikely to develop in the near future.

There are four times as many taxing communities today as there were five years ago and the total take in 1961 will be $60 to $70 million, he said.

Multi-Millionaire Getty Installs Pay Phone In Mansion

LONDON (AP) — Paul Getty, one of the world's richest and most prudent men, said today he has installed a pay telephone in his stately English mansion.

"People are funny about telephones," said the American multimillionaire. "They'll come as guests and make long-distance telephone calls all over the world."

Getty said that guests are not the main problem, however. "I've got some splendid servants now," he explained, "but in the past, well, er, some of them were calling up relatives in Scotland and talking and talking. That all went on my bill."

Speaking in his slow Oklahoma drawl, he added: "And then there's the question of workmen. We have a lot of them at Sutton Place. They're always calling relatives and friends in London."

2 Girls Are Champs In Parochial Bee

The fourth time was the charm for Mary Ann McKeever, an eighth grader at St. Aloysius parochial school in East Liverpool, who won the county parochial schools' spelling bee Saturday afternoon in East Liverpool.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McKeever of East Liverpool, Mary Ann had three previous opportunities to win the spellingdown when Rosemary Fithian of Salem St. Paul's missed words.

But Mary Ann also misspelled the words and the contest continued. Bee rules provide that when the bee is narrowed to the last two spellers the winner must correctly spell the word the other contestant misses, and then spell one additional word.

Although neither wanted to lose, it did not appear that either wanted to win.

Miss McKeever, 13, and Miss Fithian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fithian, of 482 E. Seventh St., Salem, qualified for the countywide spelling contest April 7 in Lisbon. Rosemary is a seventh grader.

Miss McKeever won the bee by spelling "accumulate" after it was missed by Rosemary, and clinched the title with "machinist."

"Finale" Was Just That
"Finale" really was the end for Tom Bica, of Salem, and the last of four boys in the contest. Young Bica had been spelling easily but was baffled when Miss Ann Johnston, a principal in East Liverpool public schools and the pronouncer for the bee, gave him the word.

When Tom was eliminated, Rosemary promptly missed "accommodate" and it appeared the bee was over. However, Mary accommodated her by also misspelling it.

Rosemary later missed "municipal" and "percolator" but Mary Ann again failed to capitalize on the opportunity. After 16 more words were pronounced, Rosemary came to "accumulate" and the contest ended.

All 15 spellers from five schools got through the first round successfully, but three were eliminated in the second round.

Patricia Bilet of Leetonia St. Patrick's was the first to go down, missing "attractive." Stephen Kintz of Our Lady of Lourdes of East Palestine missed "disappoint" and Mary Catherine Gillyool of East Liverpool bowed out on "magician."

The third round claimed Mary Kalafus of Leetonia on "language" and Donna Sugar of East Palestine on "neighbor."

Barbara Majewski of Leetonia was eliminated in the next round on "burlap" and Aaron Roach of Immaculate Conception school in Wellsville missed "beautiful." James McPeak, of Wellsville followed his schoolmate to the sidelines with "horizon."

Darlene Neilson of St. Aloysius was eliminated in the fifth round on "sincere" and Judy Kemey of Wellsville spelled the wrong kind of "straight."

Cynthia Smith of St. Aloysius missed "customer" in the sixth round to narrow the field to four. It required 33 more words before Patty McNicol of Salem substituted a "q" for a "c" in "biscuits," leaving the two girls and Bica to fight it out for the two places in the county spellingdown.

JFK, Gromyko In Confab

Soviet Delivers Message From Khrushchev

May Be Answer On British Plan For Laos Ceasefire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the White House today at noon on the heels of an announcement by the Soviet Union that it agrees with the British proposal for a truce and a negotiated settlement in Laos.

Gromyko was to deliver a message to the President from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

What Gromyko was to tell Kennedy was apparently foreshadowed by the Soviet announcement, made today through the official newspaper Pravda.

Emphasis on Peace
The article warned against intervention by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization in Laos and said in effect that force in Laos would be met by force. But its main emphasis was on the possibility of a peaceful solution.

Kennedy's meeting with Gromyko flows within 24 hours an allied strategy conference Kennedy held at Key West, Fla., Sunday with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. They surveyed military measures in the making and announced: "The situation in Laos cannot be allowed to continue to deteriorate."

Pravda's article was signed "Observer," meaning it stemmed from the highest government authority. For the first time it mentioned the British note of March 23 proposing a ceasefire and the convening of a 14-nation conference to seek a permanent peace in Laos.

No Official Comment
In Washington, there was no official immediate comment from the State Department. But official said if the Pravda account turns out to be Soviet acceptance of the British proposals the United States will, of course, be very gratified.

They called attention to Kennedy's statement at a news conference last week that, "first, we strongly and unreservedly support the goal of a neutral and independent Laos tied to no outside power or group of powers, threatening no one and free from any domination."

Kennedy returned from Florida Sunday night and was handed a message from French President Charles de Gaulle. French Ambassador Herve Alphand delivered the note and rode with Kennedy from the airport to the White House, where they sat in the car talking in the driveway for another five minutes.

Kennedy worked in his White House office for about 45 minutes afterwards.

Kennedy had sent a message to De Gaulle Sunday, telling him he was meeting Macmillan and asking De Gaulle's latest views on the Laos crisis.

The show of unity with Macmillan strengthened the President's position.

Golden Gate, but it now is sealed with stones because of the Arab-Syrian division of the Holy Land. The pilgrims used St. Stephen's steps of Christ Sunday, open-Gate to the north to reach St. Anne's Convent, marking the birthplace and childhood home of the Assyrian and Roman Mary, where a solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

At the Vatican, Pope John XXIII headed the annual procession and blessed palms in St. Peter's Basilica, the first pontiff to attend the ceremony there since 1870. St. Peter's, the world's biggest church, was chosen this year for the pontiff's appearance instead of the basilica of St. Paul outside the walls to give the throngs of pilgrims more room.

Tragedy Mars Picnic Outing

5 Children Die As Rowboat With 10 Aboard Sinks In River

SCHNEIDER, Ind. (AP) — A beautiful day of picnicking and fishing ended in death for five children Sunday night when a small rowboat loaded with 10 persons sank in Kankakee River floodwater.

The 10-foot boat had left a cottage rented for the day by Ted Bell, 49, Calumet City, Ill. It was headed for the main shore line where the families had parked their cars. Seventy yards offshore in water 15 feet deep, Bell said he speeded up the outboard motor and suddenly "water poured over the bow and we sank."

Three of Bell's children, Theodora, 5, Charlotte, 13, and Kenneth, 4, drowned along with Debbie Murzyn, 2, and Regina Murzyn, 5.

Bell said, "We started taking water, I grabbed for the kids. All of a sudden we were all in the water, the kids screaming and trying to reach us, and nobody knowing what to do. It was horrible."

Darlene Murzyn, 25, Hammond, and Bell's wife, Rose, were able to get Patsy Bell, 9, and swim to shore. Bell grabbed Chris Holmquest, 5, who lived in his apartment, and made it safely to land.

Three others on the day-long outing had gone with Bell first and were waiting on shore.

Eldon Graham, 23, Calumet City, said, "We saw some boats along the water edge and ran to get in them and help, but they were locked." He said there was nothing else to do but "run to the park superintendent's office and get keys." The office was a half mile away.

His fiancée, Kathryn Holmquest, 19, whose brother was one of the survivors, stayed to help "Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Murzyn who were coming toward me."

'Copter Saves Three Children Plucked From Boat In Muskingum River

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A helicopter, almost sucked into the water by a downdraft, hovered low over a stranded pontoon boat and plucked three children to safety from the Muskingum River Sunday.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Knussman of Zanesville, were later rescued when firemen managed to float a line to the raft-like boat and pull them to shore.

The dramatic, three-hour ordeal had an anticlimax. Six Crooksville civil defense workers also became stranded in the same spot on the river for more than four hours in an amphibious duck vehicle, they, too, were hauled near enough to shore to get them out.

The Knussmans—he's 37 and his wife, Betty, 30—had gone to a spot on the river, about 10 miles north of here, to fish. Their houseboat-like craft was only a few feet from Ellis Dam when the outboard motor conked out. A strong current in the rain-swollen river swept the boat to the side of the dam and held it fast.

The current kept other boats from getting near enough to the Knussmans to throw them a line. At this point, two Ohio National Guard helicopters were dispatched from Columbus help.

While one 'copter stood by, the other hovered over the stranded boat and one by one plucked each of the children and brought them to dry land.

On the first attempt, as fisherman Donald Goodyear of Zanesville hung precariously on a rope suspended from the whirlybird, the copter was hit by a downdraft that almost sucked it into the river.

But Goodyear managed to grab the youngest child, Kevin, 3, and as he held the boy with one hand and the rope with the other, both were carried to shore by the heli-copter. The other two children, Pamela, 6, and Gregg, 7, were taken bodily into the aircraft.

Firemen finally floated a line to the boat and pulled it to shore.

Students Stage Riot In Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — (AP)—Police from six surrounding communities reinforced local authorities in putting down a riot today after a water fight between two fraternities Sunday night erupted into a full-scale student demonstration.

At one time crowds variously estimated from 500 to 2,000 milled about the campus. During the uproar, a tomato and other objects were hurled at the school president, and a U.S. highway was blocked for a time.

Just what touched off the demonstration was a subject of campus debate today. First reports were that dismissal of a house mother started the fight. Later university spokesmen attributed the demonstration to "spring exhilaration," and said it grew from a prankish water fight into the larger demonstration when the fight began to attract students from other areas of the campus.

Between 35 and 40 police officers and deputy sheriffs had to be called out to quell the demonstration. Seven male students arrested Sunday night have been released without any charges being filed.

When President Ralph McDonald appealed to the students to disperse, he was greeted with a tomato, paper containers of soda pop and pieces of ripped-up picket fences. He escaped the barrage.

The unruly students marched onto U.S. 6 and halted traffic for a period. They were dispersed by state highway patrolmen who rushed in from four posts.

McDonald gave up trying to end the demonstration when the barrage of flying objects came his way. He told the students he was going to the university union building to entertain friends. The crowd followed him there, then moved en masse to the football stadium.

They left the stadium and seemed to quiet down in the Commons, an indoor gathering spot on campus. But the arrival of a fire truck, siren screaming and light flashing, seemed to spark the demonstrators into action again. (The firemen were called to put out a trash blaze outside the Commons.)

The students once more moved onto U.S. 6, crossing the highway back and forth in what appeared to be a deliberate attempt to halt traffic. Again police dispersed them.

About this time, girl students started back to their dormitories because of a 10 p.m. curfew. The boys trailed along and parked on the steps of Founders Hall, the

Pravda Cites Merit In U. S., British Proposal

But Soviet Organ Issues Warning on Action by SEATO

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will welcome a solution for Laos at the conference table instead of the field of battle, the Communist party paper Pravda said today. But while willing to negotiate, Moscow warned against SEATO intervention in Laos.

The Pravda article was a broad approval for American and British moves to bring the situation into negotiation. But it left in doubt just how a ceasefire, as proposed by the British, would be worked out.

The paper noted the British proposal for an immediate ceasefire to be followed by an international conference.

Laos Solution Seen
"It is not hard to see that concrete possibilities exist for the adjustment of the Laotian problem if all the countries concerned strive for this on a mutually acceptable basis and do nothing that might complicate the situation in Laos," Pravda said.

Pravda commented favorably on President Kennedy's call at a news conference for a truly neutral Laos. This probably foreshadowed the message Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko carried to Washington for his conference today with the President.

It was understood from diplomatic sources that the British proposals on Laos—expressed in a note to the Kremlin March 23—are being studied and a reply can be expected shortly.

Pravda, blaming the Laotian crisis on the Western powers, accused SEATO of bringing Chinese Nationalist soldiers into the conflict. It warned against intervention by any SEATO nation and demanded U.S. military advisers get out of the Asian kingdom.

Pravda declared that force would be met with force if necessary, but its main emphasis was on negotiations for a peaceful solution.

The article was signed "Observer," meaning it came from the highest government authority.

In Washington there was no immediate official comment from the State Department. But officials said if the Pravda account

Man Fleeing Police After Holdup Dies In Poland Crash

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A man fleeing police after a holdup here was killed when his car left the road and slammed into a residence in nearby Poland. He was Haywood Reed, 53, of Youngstown.

The force of the crash Saturday night knocked Mrs. William Godward across the kitchen of the home on the Poland-Youngstown Road.

Youngstown detective Michael Demain said he had seen a masked man in an Isaly store holding up Manager Nick Uurjevich. Demain was waiting outside the store but the gunman escaped in an exchange of gunfire.

Several more shots were fired as police gave chase. The stolen car Reed was using missed a curve and hit the house.

Police said the $70 taken in the holdup was found on Reed.

Christ's Route Retraced by Pilgrims

JERUSALEM (AP)—Latin Patriarch Alberto Gori led a Palm Sunday procession of 25,000 pilgrims from all over the world in the steps of Christ Sunday, open-Gate to the north to reach St. Anne's Convent, marking the birthplace and childhood home of the Assyrian and Roman Mary, where a solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

Holy Week in largely Catholic Poland found the church locked in struggle with the country's Communist rulers. The country's primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, said in his Palm Sunday sermon that Polish Catholics face forces dedicated to "hunting down God in our souls and destroying traces of his existence in our personal lives."

Forces Line Up for Both Measures

2 Ohio Road Fund Races May End In Photo Finish

By DUANE E. CROFT
Salem News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio—A bill to increase auto license plate fees appears to be moving up on the inside-track position of a House-passed highway fund measure in the Ohio Senate.

The outcome of the race hinges on the jockeys who hold the reins on the two proposals. It promises to be an interesting contest, with the possibility of a photo finish.

The House - approved bill (H.B.49) would give local governments an additional $15 million a year for streets and roads by shifting the cost of the Department of Highway Safety from license plate fees to part of the state gasoline tax.

It has the full backing of the Republican leadership of the General Assembly because the 1960 GOP state campaign platform specifically included it.

It has stirred the wrath of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and his highway chiefs because it would take the $15 million from funds now earmarked for State Highway Department use.

The bill challenging H.B. 49 is known as S.B. 307 and was co-sponsored by two Columbus Republicans, Sens. Kline Roberts and Richard B. Metcalf. It would raise auto license fees from $10 to $12.50 a year and truck and farm license an average of 17 per cent.

Its sponsors estimate the increase would give local governments $15.7 million more a year for streets and roads.

But the Republican leaders do not look kindly on it because it violates their pledge not to raise taxes this year.

Passes House 109-25

H.B.49 slipped through the House relatively quietly, garnering a 109-25 vote despite last-minute efforts to keep Democrats from supporting it.

This gave the GOP chieftains a happy feeling of confidence because the vote indicated plenty of reserve strength to override an almost-certain veto by DiSalle.

But things began to happen. The Highway Department unleashed a massive lobbying campaign to persuade local officials H.B. 49 could hurt rather than help them.

In return for piddling portions of the $15 million, the highway people said, many communities might be cut off from state aid on local projects because the state could not afford the loss of the money.

Local Officials Oppose

Looking around at some of the road work for which they had been seeking state help, some of the local officials were convinced. They promised to urge their legislators to turn against H.B. 49.

Then, last week, a surprising thing happened. The Senate Highway Committee scheduled a hearing on S. B. 307, leaving H. B. 49 idle in its files. An impressive lineup of local officials and regular Statehouse lobbyists showed up to say they prefer the license fee increase to the fund-juggling of H.B. 49.

This brought an immediate behind-the-scenes reaction from the Republican leaders, especially Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem. Chairman Lowell Fess of the Highways Committee reportedly got a dressing-down for scheduling the unapproved bill before the policy measure.

And rumors emanating from a GOP caucus later in the week indicated a change in tactic on

H.B. 49. It reportedly was suggested that H.B. 49 could be made more palatable to local officials by revising the distribution formula to give cities and townships more of the money and counties less.

This might relieve the local pressure on legislators and restore H. B. 49's chances of gliding over a gubernatorial veto.

But the strategy does not yet guarantee success. While some legislators and local officers might be happier with the revised pie-slicing, others still object to taking $15 million from state highway funds.

One of these is Roberts, co-sponsor of S.B. 307.

Sees Program Imperiled

He fears that lopping $15 million from state funds at this point could hamper seriously Ohio's long-range road construction program, which was set up in 1953 with the passage of a $500 million bond issue.

The peak building period of the long-range program will come in 1963-65, Roberts says, and during that period the state will need all the money it can get to keep the program on schedule and headed for completion about 1970.

He was supported in this argument at last week's hearing by Thomas H. Dudgeon, executive director of the Ohio Citizens Highway Committee, a group of business and professional men formed in 1957 to promote the long-range road-building program.

So the question that faces the reins-holders of H.B. 49 is how deeply that argument might cut into their voting strength.

Local Aid Hangs in Balance

If they manage to stop S.B. 307 dead in its tracks but can't muster enough floor votes to override a veto of H.B. 49, they would wind up in the politically unenviable position of doing nothing to help local government with their street and road problems.

One way out might be to push ahead with H.B. 49 but keep S.B. 07 in a position to move if that becomes necessary. That could be accomplished easily by getting both bills out of the Highway Committee but holding S.B. 307 in Rules Committee to await developments on H.B. 49.

With both bills scheduled for hearing this week, that may be what is in the wind.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Disproven Claims For Vitamin E

I've been raked over the coals by loyal supporters of vitamin E and of wheat germ oil, its richest source.

Q — "Why do European medical journals say that vitamin E is essential to the diet and why do American doctors ignore it? If we are so well fed, why do obstetricians say that 50 per cent of the miscarriages occurring today could have been avoided by proper nutrition?"

"Why did my own family doctor tell me that the addition of vitamin E to his diet after a serious heart attack helped him greatly?"

Q—"Why do you state that vitamin E is not related to fertility and heart disease? At the annual Congress of the International College of Surgeons, it was recently reported that expectant mothers who received vitamin E, taken in the form of wheat germ oil, had only half as many premature babies as those who had not received the oil. The report was based on a two-year study involving 1,347 women. This fact was undoubtedly reported in numerous medical journals. Do you read your own medical journals?"

"Your article seems incongruous when you consider the fact that the day it appeared another article told of the admission to the local hospital of five children suffering from muscular dystrophy. And an article in the Annals of the New York Academy of Sciences reported similar muscular disturbances in autopsies of animals deficient in vitamin E. This article concluded with the statement that 'these alterations justify the use of vitamin E in the treatment of certain cardiac conditions.'"

IF THE PROSECUTION will rest for a moment, I'd like to call witnesses in my defense.

Says the U.S. Department of Agriculture in its 1959 yearbook entitled "Food," in an article written by E. V. McCollum, emeritus professor of biochemistry at Johns Hopkins University, "Vitamin E deficiency has not been identified in people. The symptoms of vitamin E deficiency in experimental animals, especially the death of the young in the uterus and of muscular dystrophy, have led to the clinical use of vitamin E in spontaneous abortion, multiple sclerosis, various muscular and neuro-muscular disorders and cardiovascular diseases. None of these conditions treated with the vitamin has shown so far to be due to its deficiency or to be definitely benefited by vitamin E therapy."

Says the Council on Drugs of the American Medical Association:

"There seems to be agreement that the vitamin (E) is of no value in the treatment of sterility and of dubious value in the treatment of habitual abortion. It has been claimed that vitamin E is of value in the treatment of many common, serious diseases. Carefully controlled experiments have not substantiated these claims."

In justice to my critics, I must admit that the statements in my defense come only from eminent authorities in the medical profession. They do not represent the views of those who manufacture and sell vitamin E and or wheat germ oil.

It's A Breeze To Enclose Breezeway

When a family begins to out-grow its house, its members have three choices: continue to live in cramped surroundings, move into a bigger home, or expand the house.

Today, thousands of home owners lucky enough to have a porch or breezeway are finding new space by enclosing these areas.

This type of expansion usually is the most inexpensive of all. There's rarely a need for costly foundation building, and the roof generally is in place along with one or two walls.

Often much, if not all, of the work can be done by the home owner himself if he's handy the most expensive item in remodeling—labor.

Today's home handyman has a tremendous advantage in his do-it-yourself home improvement projects: modern building materials.

Among these are windows of ponderosa pine, ideal for porch and breezeway enclosures. They are available in complete units with frame and sash pre-assembled at the factory, and with hardware and weatherstripping installed.

All the home handyman has to do is lift the unit into its opening, make sure it's shimmed and level, then nail it in place.

This ease of installation results in savings even when the job is done by a professional. The units go in place quickly, reducing the cost of labor.

Other modern building materials that can make a porch or breezeway enclosure a complete do-it-yourself project include mineral wool insulation, floor and ceiling tiles, wall paneling, and tough, new paints that dry free of brush marks.

PANTRY DOES COMEBACK

Whatever happened to the pantry?

In most homes the space once devoted to pots, pans and food storage has been given over to the laundry. The great increase in kitchen cabinetry, combined with the trend to refrigerators and home freezers, seems to have satisfied the need of most families for food storage space.

But housing experts say the pantry is making a comeback after an absence dating back to pre-war housing.

LARGE AND LUXURIOUS: This really large home is designed for a luxury-loving family. It has eight rooms spread over 3,600 square feet of living space, with four bedrooms and a den. The architect is Lester Cohen, Room 75, 117 West 48th St., New York 36, N. Y. and the plan is HA181C.

Here's Valuable Tool Guide For 'Do-It-Yourself' Plumber

While much of the simpler and consist of coiled plumbing maintenance around the home can be done with tools you're likely to have on hand, you will discover after a while that a few special tools will make the work go easier.

Just how much work you do yourself will determine the types of tools in which you will want to invest. For example a pipe cutting tool will do a smooth finished job, but a hack saw is good enough if you only cut a pipe once in your life.

In your collection right now you probably have chisels, a hack saw, hammers, soldering iron, blow torch, and one or more adjustable wrenches. As you go along you may want to add some of the following:

WRENCHES: If you find that you have to get a good grip on a pipe you'll also find that nothing will take the place of a Stillson or pipe wrench.

The lower jaw on a Stillson is fixed. The upper is movable, adjusted by a nut on the handle. When you pull the handle in the direction of the jaw opening the action of the upper jaw will grip the pipe. You work in one direction only and reverse direction by reversing the wrench. Get a pair to use together, working in opposite directions to open a connection.

When you have to use a wrench on flat surfaces — fittings, nuts, valves, etc. — use a wrench with flat jaws, a monkey wrench or crescent wrench. If you are working on chrome fittings, cover the surfaces with adhesive tape to prevent marring.

Other useful tools that serve as wrenches are combination pliers with wrench-like jaws, and vise grip pliers that lock onto small items.

CUTTING TOOLS: As mentioned before your hack saw will handle the occasional cutting of a pipe. Use a fine tooth blade, nothing coarser than 24 teeth per inch, preferably 32.

More expensive are the pipe cutters that can be adjusted to the size of the pipe and revolved around the surface until it is cut. One style has a cutting wheel and two rollers and must be revolved completely around the pipe. Others have two or more cutters and can be used in more limited space.

CLEANOUT TOOLS: Although you may never install or replace any plumbing you may find yourself called on to open a stopped up drain. A plunger or plumber's friend is a rubber force cup fitted to a handle. A ribbon snake is made of a narrow strip of spring steel and has a spiral screw at the end. Others are

All Together At the Brink

As was the case whenever the late John Foster Dulles practiced what came to be known as "brinkmanship," Americans will put unity first in the crisis over Laos.

It will be reasserted that partisan politics must stop at the water's edge. No one in a position of responsibility will say anything publicly that could be interpreted as second-guessing the Kennedy administration's decision to move to the edge of shooting war in a remote place in Asia.

Rationalizers will explain that the crisis in Laos has been a long time in the making that it was a problem for the Eisenhower administration; that it was inherited by the Kennedy administration.

One and all, we will get ourselves into a crisis frame of mind, as we did over the situation in Cuba, the situation at Suez, the situation in Lebanon, the one in Iran, and the one in Hungary. But this one may turn out to be like the situation in Korea.

DECISIONS and events in Washington and around the world are suggestive once more of the rumblings of the machinery of international violence. The "brush war" that planning officials were discussing in the abstract in Washington only a few days ago is now a gunshot from being in the concrete.

Once more there is public opinion to be molded and given official shape, and once more millions of Americans with no knowledge of Laos and what is held to be at stake there are expected to help with the molding.

This is another move to offset the spread of Communist axis influence, we are told. Ostensibly, it is a showdown with the Soviet Union over the latter's attempt to get control of Laos through military intervention.

Russian intervention previously had caused the United States to spend vast amounts of money to thwart Communist mischief in Laos. Intervention by both sides is not new. Only the scale is new.

The stakes in Laos have been raised. If the United States and its partners in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization want to stay in the game, they will have to meet the ante and raise it by a few hundred million dollars and thousands of troops.

TO THIS PROPOSITION there can be no dissent. Everybody will stand shoulder to shoulder. Americans are the only people to be taken into their government's confidence on momentous foreign policy decisions, and Laos will be a test of national poise.

The Laotians know next to nothing of what is happening in their country or what may happen if violence flares. Few Russians will have any knowledge of events in Laos. And few Chinese.

At the thought of the Red Chinese, composure at the brink falters. The Korean War was an attempt to thwart the spread of Russian Communist influence it ended up in a full-blown war against hordes of Chinese swarming across the boarder to fight Americans.

THE TOUCH-AND-GO factor in Laos is what it always has been—the true identity of the opposition.

There are Communist Laotians, as there were Communist Koreans.

There are Communist Russians—not many, perhaps, but a few in key places.

There is Russian armament. There are Russian supplies.

But will there eventually be hordes of Red Chinese soldiers, too numerous to push back, too savage to defeat and too ominous to retreat from? Will there be another 38th parallel, another phony truce and another remote Asian garrison to be manned by U.S. troops? Is this going to be Korea all over again? Is this another trap?

There are the thoughts that come to mind as the Kennedy administration takes up the brinkmanship the Eisenhower administration sometimes was condemned for practicing at the expense of America's peace of mind.

Censorship After the Fact

Newsmen in Moscow have been told that censorship before dispatches can be sent abroad will be discontinued in favor of censorship after publication.

They will be held accountable for what is published, though they no longer will have to submit it to a censor before publication. This was the system used by the Hitler regime in Germany at the height of its power.

It means that every correspondent must live and work in imminent danger of having his sojourn in the Soviet Union cut short if he displeases the government. Even an editor's pencil in the home office of a publication could destroy a correspondent's welcome. To minimize this danger, correspondents will keep carbon copies of their original dispatches, to use in their defense if their dispatches incur displeasure through no fault of their own. Actually, they will be somewhat better off than they were before.

The key to the rule is the Russian government's prerogative of inflicting punishment on a correspondent who displeases it. Its power to do so is unquestionable; the Soviet Union is a party dictatorship. It is under no obligation either stated or implicit to tolerate anything it does not like.

Its entire political system is based on the intolerance of criticism and "misrepresentation" as essential tools of freedom their impulse to lower the boom is restrained. Their impulse "to get even" by flexing their muscles is curbed.

It is there, nevertheless. That is why laws are needed to keep politicians from running amuck. It is why they are forbidden to reach secret decisions. It is why they are expressly forbidden to make laws "abridging the freedom of speech or the press." Censorship either before or after the fact has been outlawed forever in the United States as far as the written word is concerned.

Sacred Cow With Four Wheels

Snorts of indignation were heard when Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze told a congressional committee automobiles may have to be barred from congested business districts some day. The mayor was supporting a federal handout to improve big city transportation.

Here are two related problems that will be solved eventually by circumstances no one presently can foresee. But one thing is starting to be visible. The claim that the automobile in America is like a sacred cow in India — privileged to go anywhere — is weakening.

THE AUTOMOBILE is not a sacred cow. There are places where it should not be permitted now, and there are places where it will not be permitted in the future. There are limits to tolerance for even a thing as useful and as popular as an automobile.

It should not be assumed that everything in America must be accommodated to the needs of this four-wheeled "cow." It should not be assumed, either, that the federal government should upse general funds to bail out cities that have swamped themselves with auto traffic. Their transportation problems are their own. They do not belong to the whole U.S. public.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

"Don't call the Missing Persons Bureau if I am long gone, dear. Just realize I've entered the city by auto."

This is sensible warning to one's wife these days. Traffic is such a mess that the U.S. Senate subcommittee has heard many mayors on problem.

Business, public welfare and orderly life are behind the eight ball as result of big cuts in commuter-railroad and bus service, they say.

Cities have become studies in traffic chaos, frazzled nerves, general frustration and slow motion. When you penetrate big town (and many a small one) you are engaging in an exploit and safari through the boiling radiator jungle.

The STOP sign should be put on the auto owner instead of the street light. Unable to get in by train, he takes the family auto with a cry of "Forward inch by inch!"

From the air most cities can be mistaken for parking lots. The regular parking lots alone show one or two open spaces.

Many mayors appearing before senators proposed first aid to railroads as solution but even this may be a dream.

Maybe only bright suggestion is to bring back the bicycle and have a national campaign to restore public interest in pedestrianism and free-balloon travel.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS to parents through conspiracy fixing prices in diaper industry is alleged by New York attorney general. One case where the price industry officials couldn't say, "Let us look forward and not behind."

Comment on basketball crookedness: "That's the way the ball bounces."

Baby born to Mrs. Clark Gable is image of father, it is announced. Nonsense! At the age of 24 hours not even Clark Gable looked like Clark Gable.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

AUBURN, N. Y. I have crisscrossed the highways of the land and I have found the people restless and disturbed. Congress soon will be able to see for itself this surging uneasiness. The unemployed are going to Washington. They will gather by the thousands in the prominent squares.

Victor Riesel

This will not be a "Coxey's Army." The jobless will come in trains and sleep on them in the depot and on the sidings until they hear the President.

He will speak to them — perhaps as many as 20,000 will gather soon in the nation's capital — for this is as he wants it. There has been word from the White House to the "House of Labor" across the street that John Kennedy would like the nation's labor leaders to stir the countryside and let the noise be heard inside the Congress.

Matter of Fact

This year the United States spent about 40 billion dollars for defense. That's more than any other country in the world. Perhaps the least any country spends is in the tiny land of Andorra between Spain and France. Last year Andorra's defense budget was six dollars. This paid for the ammunition at the annual shooting contest of Andorra's 12-man police force and "army."

So They Say

By and large, I think the Russian government has every intention of living up to any agreement it may make on nuclear tests or in the larger fields of disarmament.—James J. Wadsworth, former ambassador to the U.N.

The federal courts are moving against Southern thought and culture... with a viciousness peculiar only to tyranny and dictatorship. — Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia.

Thoughts

Do you indeed decree what is right, you gods? Do you judge the sons of men uprightly? — Psalms 58:1.

Four things belong to a judge: to hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly, and to decide impartially.—Socrates.

From the Files

5 YEARS AGO — Mrs. Warren Helm and Mrs. Albert Spack were guests of Mrs. Carl Thomas recently when she entertained the Cardette club.

10 YEARS AGO — Robert Carpenter has been re-elected commander of the Allen K. Reynolds post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

25 YEARS AGO — Miss Katy Jo Zimmer of Wooster, formerly of Salem, is spending the week with Miss Betty Martin of Franklin St.

These AFL-CIO chiefs are not reluctant stirrers. They appear to be all set with plans of their own and are ready for the "march" or "parade" on Congress.

THE JOBLESS demonstrations will be directed by a two-man subcommittee on unemployment of the AFL-CIO Executive Council in consultation with Mr. Labor himself, George Meany.

Heading the strategists is Communications Workers of America President Joseph Beirne.

It is their plan to draw the jobless from depressed area communities such as this one, where one out of every eight workers has been unemployed for months, and from the West Coast, where there have been aircraft layoffs, and from Pittsburgh, where there have been steel retrenchments, and from Detroit, where auto plant employees have had to take work furloughs.

The committee's plan is to have each central labor council in virtually all the state capitals run mass meetings and pass resolutions asking Congress for swift passage of John Kennedy's proposed legislation.

Then the group will run at least 15 unemployment demonstrations in the "hardest hit" cities, which they say run from Los Angeles right on through Wheeling, W. Va., into Pittsburgh and some Ohio steel communities and on to New York City.

THEN THESE JOBLESS will be moved into Washington, mostly by train and bus caravans. With these as mobile lodging places the unemployed will fan out to a series of hotel ballrooms. There they will meet with their congressional delegations.

Finally they will march up Pennsylvania Avenue to the steps of the Capitol. There they expect to hear John Kennedy.

Their target date is late April or the first week in May. This is just about the time they expect Congress to debate the minimum wage bill; the multi-billion dollar road building program; the educational proposal for construction of 136,000 classrooms and the old struggle for medical aid to the aging.

It is the feeling of both the White House and labor's leadership that the bills will be bogged down in Congress just about six weeks from now. That's when they will bring in their restless people.

There is more here than even the concern over the jobless of 1961. White House economists and their friends inside labor have written 1961 off as a recovery date. They now are deeply worried over the threat of new jobless ranks in 1962. These will come from the "war babies"—1.2 million of them coming of age annually compared with the average 700,000 increase in the labor force each year of the '50s.

THIS COULD well carry the jobless total to more than six million — even if the recession lifts and production goes up with it.

Long before workers are recalled to their plants, the companies will first have to increase the hours of those already working in the plants.

Only then, after the 40-hour week is reached by the staff on hand, will the jobless start being rehired.

Furthermore, because the recession hit hard in many areas, many firms have put in more efficient machinery. This means fewer workers will be rehired.

There would, in fact, have been far more jobless if President Eisenhower had not increased defense spending during the last half of '60 and if President Kennedy had not increased highway construction spending in the past two months.

Now Mr. Kennedy and his labor allies want a few billion dollars authorized swiftly, to keep 1962 from being dragged down by '61.

That's what they'll be shouting for when the jobless mount the steps of the national Capitol.

SIDE GLANCES

"Earrings, perfume, necklace, bracelet, lipstick—gee, Sis, you girls must think us men are mighty important!"

Kennedy's Test

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Will U.S. Stand Firm In Laos?

It's the same old story: The Moscow regime is testing the United States government to see if it stands firm in Laos or will acquiesce in further encroachments in Southeast Asia by Soviet-controlled forces.

Laos is just a proving ground — an opportunity to find out whether the United States under the Kennedy administration is less courageous than it was under the Eisenhower administration. Oddly enough, the situation today is almost parallel to what it was just seven years ago, when a major crisis arose in Southeast Asia as Communist forces launched an all-out attack against the French in Indochina.

A four-power conference subsequently was held at Geneva to settle the dispute by drawing a line between the northern and southern sections of Viet Nam, giving large territory to the Communists and neutralizing neighboring Laos and Cambodia. Shortly before the conference, when Vice President Nixon made a speech hinting at military action by the United States, he was promptly assailed by the Democrats, including Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Here is a paraphrase of what Mr. Nixon said in an off-the-record talk to the American Society of Newspaper Editors on April 16, 1954, as published at the time: "The United States as a leader of the free world cannot afford further retreat in Asia. It is hoped the United States will not have to send troops there, but if this government cannot avoid it, the administration must face up to the situation and dispatch forces."

The State Department, in a formal announcement immediately thereafter, said that Mr. Nixon had not enunciated any new policy and referred to a speech by Secretary Dulles a few weeks before in which he had said: "Under the conditions of today the imposition on Southeast Asia of the political system of Communist Russia and its Chinese Communist ally, by whatever means, would be a grave threat to the whole free community."

The United States feels that that possibility should not be met by united action. "This might involve risks but these risks are far less than those that will face us a few years from now if we dare not be resolute today."

MR. DULLES was criticized as indulging in "Brinkmanship," and on April 20 — just four days after the Nixon speech — Sen. Kennedy said: "The American people should be told the truth about the situation in the Far East. . . . For if Secretary Dulles' and Vice President Nixon's words are to be taken at their face value, we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the Tiger. . . . But I do believe it both proper and necessary that those who bear responsibility should indicate in advance the course of action that should be adopted."

MR. KENNEDY, as a presidential candidate, said to the American Legion convention at Miami on Oct. 18, 1960, that the Soviets were moving in to take control of various countries by subversion, "and we sit back — that is my dispute with this administration." He declared: "And without a soldier crossing into those countries, without a shot being fired, by the change of mind of a paratroop commander in Laos, a country in which we spent more money per capita than any other country in the world, a country where we spent $300 million, where we have been paying the army for the last two years, they are about to seize control of Laos and not a Communist soldier or a Russian soldier has crossed the boundary of Laos. . . ."

"They could, by 1970, control great sections of the earth without ever advancing their armies beyond their present frontiers. "So we have to concern ourselves with building up our military power because their military power is behind their expansion but that is not enough, if we are going to stop the Communist advance in the 1960s. . . ."

"I want to make it very clear to Mr. Khrushchev and to anyone else who wonders, I will not cut our present commitments to the cause of freedom if I am elected president of the United States anywhere in the world — the Formosa Straits, Latin America, Africa, Asia — I support our present effort to build strength, not merely to hold the line but to expand freedom all around the globe."

MR. KENNEDY, as President of the United States, now is face to face with a situation similar to that which confronted his predecessor.

He bears the responsibility now. Nikita Khrushchev may have wondered whether what was said to the American Legion was just campaign oratory or whether it was the forerunner of a militant policy.

As the Soviet government makes the test in Laos, Americans, irrespective of party, will today support the President if his pledge of last October is fulfilled. But to avoid military action and to go into an international conference is one thing, and to prevent such an international conference from dividing up another independent country — which, like North Viet Nam in Indo China, can be used as another Communist base for infiltration and guerrilla warfare against neutral neighbors — is something else again.

Yet this is the clue to the effectiveness of the policy on Laos announced by President Kennedy at his press conference.

Business Heroes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The stubbornest American hero is the small businessman. As part of the U.S. dream some 400,000 people will start a new small business this year. The odds are that 10 years from now only one out of five of these small enterprises will still be alive.

Here's another indication of the high mortality: The median age of our 4 1/4 million business firms is only seven years. It takes more than blind courage to succeed in business. You usually also need know-how and capital.

If cleanliness is really next to godliness, we're getting nearer heaven every year. Someone has estimated Americans now take half a billion baths weekly.

Body glue: Japanese medics have found they can close surgical incisions in two minutes by using a new adhesive instead of traditional needlework. The stick stuff, an American synthetic resin, is absorbed by the body within a week.

Prosperity note: If you earned $12,000 last year, you had the same purchasing power, after taxes, as did a man in 1939 who earned $6,000.

Our quotable notables: "No Christian can ultimately be an isolationist." — Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Geographical tidbit: Some Irish claim the town with the sweetest-sounding name is Clonmel in County Tipperary. Its actual meaning in Gaelic is "Meadow of Honey."

If you hear a friend of yours is suffering from siderodromophobia, don't get too alarmed. It merely means he's afraid of railroads.

Marital mathematics: There is an old saying in Germany that the best age for a bride is half the husband's age plus seven.

Insomnia ever bother you? In rural Wales an ancient cure for sleeplessness is to put a container of milk under your bed. But modern doctors here say you're more likely to get results if you warm the milk and put some of it in your stomach.

There's been so much talk of Americans losing their high sense of personal honesty, it's a pleasure to report this indication of return to sterner moral values: The Hotel Edison here says many tourists now prefer to buy hotel towels as souvenirs rather than steal them.

Signs that sell: Seen in a pet shop in Houston, Tex: "Situation wanted. Healthy kitten seeks good home. Honest, loyal, sober—an will do light mousework."

Need to clean your eyeglasses in a hurry? A fresh dollar bill will do the job well.

It was Gertrude Stein who observed, "In the United States there is more space where nobody is than where anybody is. That is what makes America what she is."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I divorced my husband in 1958 because he said he wanted to marry another woman. Well, he didn't marry her and she left town six months ago.

We have three children who are crazy about their Daddy. He comes to see them twice a week. Since he works nights (11-to-7 shift) he is free afternoons. He always comes to see the kids on weekdays and shows up about 1 o'clock when he knows they're in school. He visits with me and waits for them to come home.

My problem is this: I'm still in love with him and I melt when he turns on the charm. For the last three months I've been melting regularly. I know it's wrong but I don't know what to do about it. I'd love to remarry him but I'd die before I'd suggest it. I can't tell him not to come over because he has visiting privileges. Please tell me what to do. — PUTTY IN HIS HANDS.

Dear Putty: Ask your ex-husband to let you know in advance when he expects to drop in. A phone call will do. Invite a friend or neighbor to be on hand so you won't be alone with him. If he arrives unexpectedly tell him you must leave — and then do.

So long as he's able to enjoy a husband's privileges on a "drop in" basis he'll never marry you. Since you can't resist his charms, your best bet is to keep the place "crowded."

Status Symbol

Dear Ann: Your column today caused me to do a slow burn. It was about the gal who let her sister borrow her mink stole. You said, "Most husbands couldn't care less whether their wives lend their wearing apparel." Speak for yourself, Kiddo. I'm a husband who cares plenty. I'd blow my top if my wife let her sister or anyone else borrow her mink stole. And it's not even mink — it's dyed squirrel. When a guy buys his wife feathers and frills he has a sense of pride about it. It's sort of a status symbol.

It's an insult when a wife attaches so little importance to her fur stole that she'd lend it out as if it were an egg-beater. I'm mad.—IN THE RED.

Dear Red: I was surprised at the number of men who share your possessive attitude toward their wives' glad rags. Apparently you fellows believe the expensively adorned wife is proof of your own material success.

I haven't heard a sound from the guys who are up to their Adam's apple in debt because of the little woman's fancy tastes.

Critical Aunt

Dear Ann: The problem is my maiden aunt who comes to our house about twice a week. Although I'm only 15 I have a few ideas of my own and I don't like it when she runs everyone down — especially my father.

My aunt keeps saying she could have married many men who were much better-looking and richer than Dad. She hints that Mom could have done a lot better if she had been fussier.

This aunt has a good paying job and seems to be satisfied with her life. Why does she criticize my folks so much? I get very irritated when she harps on this subject. How can I get her off of it.—PROUD DAUGHTER.

Dear Daughter: Your aunt is ashamed of her spinsterhood and tries to cover up by criticizing your mother and belittling your father. Tell her emphatically that you don't want to hear any more on the subject. Be just as blunt as she is.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cincinnati Seeks Break-Through on OSU Schedule

Jubilant Bearcats Can Use NCAA Title As Talking Point

Ohio State's Streak Comes to Halt In 70-65 Overtime Thriller

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's victory over Ohio State in the NCAA basketball finals might help cut down a roadblock in Ohio athletics that goes back years.

Cincinnati's 70-65 overtime victory Saturday night was the first time the schools have met in basketball since 1922.

University of Cincinnati officials wouldn't say much about it Sunday, except they hope the school can play Ohio State in regular season games.

But Cincinnati officials Sunday had other things on their mind. This conservative old riverbank city spread its wildest victory celebration and welcome in years for the victorious Bearcats, returning from their Kansas City triumph. It came in the first season of new coach Ed Jucker. Played Ohio U. This Year

Ohio State, long a power in the Big Ten, has for years not played other Ohio schools in football and basketball. It broke the unwritten rule the past season by opening a Ohio University as the Athens school dedicated its new arena.

Cincinnati has indicated it wants to schedule Ohio State in basketball.

"I don't know of any new talks on that," said Jucker Sunday, "and actually I can't comment on it at this time."

He said, however, that assistant coach Tay Baker was still in Kansas City trying to iron out next year's basketball schedule.

Jucker said last Friday was the first time Cincinnati, a defensive power, had scouted Ohio State. He said, "We simply made up our minds to play our game offensively. It had been successful this far; why change it?"

"Our defense harassed their guards bringing the ball up court from the very beginning. . . . This upset their pattern. . . . It gradually resulted in Jerry Lucas coming out farther and farther from the basket. . . . He wasn't getting those jump shots in the second half. . . ."

One thing is certain, the Buckeye team's domination of the "cage capital" title.

Cincinnati's Bearcats are the brand new NCAA champs after Saturday's sparkling 70-65 overtime verdict over Ohio State which knocked the top-ranked Bucks off the throne and ended their 32-game winning streak.

Wittenberg's Tigers, the country's best defensive team, won the NCAA College Division crown a week ago by beating Southeast Missouri 42-38 for a 16-game winning streak and a 25-4 record.

And Cleveland, with a 28-point spree by Jack Adams, won the National AAU championship Saturday night at Denver by 107-96 over the Colorado club.

Then the Buckeye boys won the two big collegiate crowns, along with the AAU, feats not marred too much by Dayton's fourth-place finish in the NIT and the overtime crumbling of Ohio State's dynasty.

Cincinnati, which couldn't take the NCAA with the aid of the time without him and with a great Oscar Robertson, did it this brand new coach, Ed Jucker. The Bearcats won their last 22 after losing three of the first eight.

Jucker said he had no All-Americans on his club—just a bunch of good, sound players. Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's All-America, led the scoring with 27 in the futile title defense.

This is the second time Jerry has run into a heart-breaking defeat in a really big game.

In high school, after leading Middletown to two state championships, and a record string of 76 straight victories, Lucas scored 25 points in a 63-62 loss to Columbus North in the state tournament—the lone loss he suffered as a scholastic star.

From Cincinnati, and heading upstream, the Ohio River is dotted with champions this year—three of them state scholastic strongholds.

Portsmouth, on the north bank of the Ohio, won Ohio's Class AA (big school) title Saturday. About 50 miles upstream from there, on the south bank, is Ashland, Ky., which took the Blue Grass high school championship. And another 20 miles away is Huntington, winner of the West Virginia high school laurels.

Others on the Salem team are Bill Pauline, Jim Foreman, Tod Couchie, Dick Beall, John Stephenson, Frank Shagnot and Ed Daugherty.

Wiesenhahn Stopped Havlicek Jucker said this helped a sturdy Bob Wiesenhahn defensively against John Havlicek who scored only four points. Wiesenhahn netted a team high of 17 points.

While Cincy fans went wild starting in the wee hours Sunday and continuing through a giant welcome of the team, at Columbus, Ohio State fans were staging a welcome home celebration for the losers.

The Buckeyes were met and cheered by thousands at Port Columbus Airport and along a parade route. Banners waved at the airport proclaiming, "You're still Our Champs" and "Welcome Back Bucks, National Champs 1960 and 1962."

At St. John Arena on campus, where an hour-long rally was witnessed by some 8,000 fans. Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told the crowd he had mixed emotions.

"How can I say that I am sad that an Ohio team (Cincinnati) won the national championship," said the governor. "And how can I not be sad that a great Ohio State team was defeated."

But, he told the Buckeyes: "You lost nothing of the esteem of your fellow citizens."

Lucas Named 'MVP'

Coach Fred Taylor, whose dream of a second straight national championship folded in Kansas City, reminded the fans, "It's not the end of the world."

With tongue in cheek, he added: "I think we'll have a basketball team next year."

Ohio State's All-America Jerry Lucas, named most valuable player in the NCAA tournament for the second straight year, was honored at the rally with the U.S. Basketball Writers Association "Player of the year" award.

In accepting it, Lucas stated: "I've been very lucky in a lot of decisions that I made in my life but coming to Ohio State was the greatest decision I ever made."

Pirates, Reds Lose

Podres Stop Orioles 2-0 on Just 5 Hits

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Southpaw Johnny Podres, sore-backed hurler who has had the tools but never the stamina needed to win 20 games has brought the Los Angeles Dodgers winning streak to six with the second route-going performance of the exhibition season.

Showing no signs of the back trouble that has plagued him throughout a standout major league career, the 28-year-old left hander flashed mid-season form Sunday as he went all the way in a five-hit 2-0 victory over Baltimore.

Division Title Won by Celts

Syracuse Victim In 123-101 Contest

BOSTON (AP) —Bill Sharman, who almost saw his career ended in midseason, today had literally shot the Boston Celtics into the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

The defending champion Celtics defeated Syracuse 123-101 Sunday and wrapped up the best-of-seven Eastern Division series, 4-1.

With the game still hanging in the balance, Sharman and fireman Frank Ramsey took charge. In the final three minutes of the third period they tallied 11 points between them for an 88-83 lead after Sam Jones' jumper broke a 73-73 tie, the 16th deadlock of the contest.

In less than 12 minutes, Sharman had registered 21 of his 27 points.

The former Southern California ace, now in his 11th NBA season, missed five weeks' play in December-January due to a muscle tear in his left leg.

Favored St. Louis rallied to deadlock the Western Division series with Los Angeles at two games each with a 118-117 triumph Saturday night. They meet in St. Louis tonight.

Ferraris Set Pace In Endurance Race

SEBRING, Fla. AP—Members of a proud Ferrari racing team head for Europe this week after setting records and virtually sweeping honors in the demanding 12-hour Sebring endurance test for sports cars.

The victory, carved out over a tricky 5.2-mile layout on an abandoned airfield, sent the Italian manufacturer winging into the lead in competition for the 1961 world championship.

Ferrari's two major competitors — international teams driving powerful Maseratis and maneuverable little Porsches—both suffered shutouts. Each team entered two cars. Neither managed to keep one in the race.

All of the first four cars were Ferraris.

Podres, who never has won more than 14 games a season in his eight years with the Dodgers, struck out seven and walked four. He also drove in the only runs against the Orioles with a sharp single to center in the second inning.

The batters grabbed the spotlight for San Francisco and Minnesota. The Giants rapped the Chicago Cubs 15-10 with a 19-hit outburst that included five homers, while the Twins belted Kansas City 18-4 on a two-homer, 18-hit attack.

In other games, Chicago's White Sox edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Philadelphia nipped St. Louis, 5-3, New York defeated Cincinnati 6-2, Milwaukee whipped Detroit 7-4, Cleveland beat Boston 9-3, Washington bopped the Braves 5-1 and the Los Angeles Angels topped San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Podres, joining Cub rookie Jack Curtis as the only pitchers to go the distance so far this season, allowed only one extra base hit—a double by Gus Triandos. The Dodgers were checked on six hits by Steve Barber and rookie John Papa.

Rookie catcher Tom Haller powered the Giants attack with two homers, one a grand slam job in the first inning. Orlando Cepeda, Willie Mays and pitcher Sanford also connected for San Francisco, while Al Heist and Jerry Kindall countered for the Cubs.

Four unearned runs in the first and a six-run rally in the sixth gave the Twins their victory over the A's. Bob Allison drove in three runs for Minnesota with a homer and two singles, and Jose Valdivielso also hit for the distance.

Pinch hitter Earl Torgeson stroked a two-run single in the eighth to wrap it up for the White Sox, and became the club's leading RBI man with nine. The Pirates had scored in the first on singles by Dick Schofield and Bob Skinner and an infield out.

The Phils took advantage of two St. Louis errors and a misjudged fly ball, scoring all their runs in the fifth off Bob Miller. A two-run homer by rookie Leroy Thomas and the nine-hit pitching of Ralph Terry and Danny McDevitt gave the Yankees the edge over the Reds.

McMillan Homers Roy McMillan and Wes Covington homered as the Braves downed the Tigers, despite Al Kaline's first roundtripper and a single, double and homer by Jake Wood. Eight runs in the first three innings clinched it for the Indians as Jim Grant limited the Red Sox to one run in six innings.

Joe McLain pitched seven-hit ball in a seven-inning stint against the Braves B squad, while Gene Woodling's two-run double in the third gave the Senators all the runs they needed. Julio Becquer's single in the seventh drove in the tie-breaker for the Angels, who got six-hit pitching from Ted Bowsfield and Jerry Casale.

Portsmouth Takes Ohio 'AA' Title

Ayersville Wraps Up 'A' Laurels; Liberty Dominates All-Star Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Home from the basketball wars today were Portsmouth's Trojans and the Ayersville Pilots — all loaded with laurels.

In the post-tournament calm after the 39th state high school cage classic, a summing up disclosed that:

Grant Allows Only 4 Runs In 17 Frames

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Jim (Mudcat) Grant, fun-loving and carefree in the past, is all business out on the mound this spring. And he's turned in the best pitching of any Cleveland hurler.

Grant, 24-year-old right-hander who has been on the brink of stardom for three years, has pitched 17 innings and permitted only four earned runs.

He hurled five-hit ball for six innings against Boston Sunday as the Indians snapped a four-game losing spell with a 9-3 decision at Tucson. Grant allowed only one earned run.

More good news in the pitching department came from Gary Bell who turned in his third straight creditable job. Bell, hampered last season by a sore shoulder, worked three innings and blanked the Red Sox on one hit.

The Indians banked at a dozen hits, with Tito Francona, Woodie Held, Walter Bond and Bubba Phillips collecting two each.

Grant struck out seven batters as he pitched six innings for the second time in five days.

Bell hasn't given up an earned run in nine innings and he threw harder Sunday than at any time this spring, giving indications his arm trouble may be a thing of the past.

Meanwhile, Bond is repeating his sensational hitting of last spring. With Jim Piersall benched by aching ribs, Bond has whacked hits in 15 trips.

Cleveland made its first spring invasion of California today by coming to this resort city to play the Los Angeles Angels.

SOFTBALL MEETING SET

All prospective players and managers in the various Salem softball leagues are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Building.

Portsmouth, repeating as Class AA champion after a 30-year interim, placed All - Ohio Mike Haley and C. A. Hartley on the first all-tournament team and Rudy Shively on the second; Hale as the most valuable player, and Coach George Heller as coach of the North All-Stars for the June 17 Rebel-Yankee game at Cuyahoga Falls.

Neff Top Player Ayersville, back on the Class A throne after first winning in 1957, had All-Ohio Danny Neff as the outstanding player. Neff and Virgil Linebrink on the all-tournament team. Neff as the tournament's leading scorer with 42, the state's only unbeaten record (30-0), top ranking in the final Associated Press poll, and "Coach of the Year" in Lee Himmeger.

Portsmouth came from behind to nip Urbana's unbeaten Hill-climbers 30-44. Haley getting the pertinent points with 1:17 to go. Urbana, last of the unbeaten team in the 399-school Class AA division, saw its string snapped at 25.

Ayersville, also behind in the fading minutes, used a field goal by Neff to go ahead of Liberty Union of Trumbull County, 39-38 with 1:15 to play for a 40-38 conquest of the Leopards who went in with a 27-1 record. Neff got seven of Ayersville's 10 points in the final quarter after getting five in the first and nothing in the next two periods.

Liberty Cleans Up Liberty Union, although the loser, did something no other team has ever done in the tournament—all its starting five being named to the all-tournament 11-man squad. Two made the first team and three the second.

Gary Trebilcock and Fred Albrecht of Liberty made the first team, along with the two Ayersville stars and Carl Whitaker of Madison South. Steve Miller, Alan Taradash and Neil Brayton of Liberty joined three Proctorville Fairland players, Vic Lewis, Ron Kingerly and Doug Curry, on the second team.

Practically the same thing happened on the Class AA all-star squad, picked by newsmen and broadcasters covering the event, as losing Urbana picked up four of the 10 spots.

The Hillclimbers had All-Ohio Gail Evans, top scorer in his class with 31, on the first team, and Don Harkins, Ed Coutts and Jim Finch on the second.

Rounding out the first team with

Evans, Halley and Hartley were Wilson Graham of Cleveland East Tech and Lee Johnson of Elyria. Others on the second team were Bob Rozier of East Tech and Shively of Portsmouth.

Portsmouth is the only southeastern district team ever to win the Class AA crown, and Ayersville is the ninth northwestern district school to annex the Class A championship. The Trojans lose 10 of their 11-man squad through graduation — and coach Heller viewed the fact with:

"Next year? (We'll just be building character." For Ayersville, Neff will be back —and he's practically a team by himself.

turns out to be Soviet acceptance of the British proposals the United States will, of course, be very gratified.
"The British government stands for an immediate cessation of the fire in Laos, after which it considered possible the convening of the international control commission in Laos," the Pravda article said.
Agree With Proposal
"Britain agrees with the (Soviet) proposal for speeding the international conference to consider the Laos problem and stands for a speedy solution of the problem of a neutral government of national unity in Laos."
"It is not difficult to see that there are some real possibilities for regulating the Laos problem if all interested countries try to achieve that and do nothing that could aggravate the situation in Laos."
Although it put the blame on the United States for the situation in Laos and took issue with much that President Kennedy said at his news conference Thursday, the Observer article welcomed "the statement of the President that the United States wants peace in Laos and not war."

2 Drivers Cited After Car Mishaps

Two drivers were cited following two traffic accidents investigated by highway patrolmen Sunday.
In one of the mishaps, on Rt. 30, one-quarter of a mile south of Lisbon at 11:25 a.m., Ronald Parrack, 23, of Elyria, turned his southbound car left into the path of a northbound auto operated by Mary Ondik, 22, of Toronto.
Minor damage was sustained by both autos, patrolmen said. Parrack was cited by patrolmen for failure to yield the right of way.
Cars driven by Nancy Pridham, 31, of Columbiana, and Richard Price, 32, of Darlington, Pa., received minor damage when they collided at the intersection of Routes 46 and 14, just north of Columbiana, at 6 p.m. Patrolmen said Price failed to obey the traffic light at the intersection and drove his east-bound auto into the Pridham car. Price was cited by the Patrol for failure to obey a traffic signal.

Salem City Hospital Candid Observations
(Twelfth Article of a Series on Hospital Information)
"We interrupt our current series — on new management methods — to bring a special article to you this week."

The Cleveland Story

We have been impressed in recent months by the many serious problems that have arisen in Cleveland's hospitals. These have constantly been in the newspapers, on radio and TV.
Starting last fall there was considerable publicity and furor about a 22.4% Blue Cross hike needed because of soaring hospital costs. There was an extensive hearing before Edward A. Stowell, Ohio Superintendent of Insurance.
A few weeks later came news on a "labor strike" at the Huron Road Hospital.
Following this were news stories about public fund drives to make "big hospitals bigger" in Cleveland.
Then in the latter part of winter big news came out on St. Vincent's Charity Hospital turning away medically indigent cases because the County Welfare Department refused payment except for actual relief cases. "Other Cleveland hospitals were expected to follow suit." "Several thousand medically indigent may be denied hospital care" were the headlines.
Then an item calling for a community-wide study on hospital costs and techniques. This suggested by the Federation of Realty Interests because of an excessive rise in Cleveland hospital costs. Private room day rates were quoted as ranging from $32 to $64, including service fees up to $20 per day.
Finally, we come up to date with recent news items on the hospitals' annual reports for 1960. St. Luke's Hospital headlined their loss in 1960 of $209,000 pointing the blame at the medically indigent problem.
In contrast — the Salem City Hospital Story goes this way:
• Labor trouble?—No: our employee morale is excellent, our wage scale is under Cleveland hospitals, but so are our living costs.
• No serious complaints from patients, 97% rate this hospital "very good" or "excellent" in writing.
• Our private room rates are from $21 to $23.50 with no service fees.
• We have no operating deficits.
• Excessive rise in costs? — No: our average patient day cost for all patient services increased $.03 last year. In 1959, it was $29.96; in 1960, it was $29.99.
• No major problem with the medically indigent. Our relations with Robert Bycroft, Director of the Columbiana County Welfare Department are excellent.
• We have had no public fund drives for new facilities in over 10 years. However, we have added $1,000,000 in new facilities during this period through individual bequests and private donations from individuals, industrial firms and retail establishments, plus funded depreciation.
We do not know the moral to this "story in contrast" — we leave it for you to decide. It is, however, most unfortunate that big city hospitals have such big problems.
By Jack Mosher, Administrator
